Performance Food Group Names New Senior Director of Protein

RICHMOND, Va. — Performance Food Group, Inc. (PFG) today announced that Brad Morgan has been named Senior Director of Protein for Performance Food Group, effective January 5, 2015. He reports directly to Steve Sands, Vice President of Protein for Performance Food Group.

Brad brings more than 20 years of leadership experience, research and education within the meat industry to his new role. He began his career as a professor in the animal science departments at several universities, including the University of Nebraska, Colorado State University and Oklahoma State University, where he received numerous honors and recognition. Brad is widely published and recognized as an expert in animal science. In 2010, he joined Zoetis Corporation as Director of Beef Operations and served in that role until joining PFG.

Brad earned bachelor's and master's degrees from Oklahoma State and University of Nebraska, respectively, and his Ph.D. from Texas A&M University. During his university career, he obtained more than $12.5 million in research support while conducting research in 27 countries.

Brad currently is the president of the American Meat Science Association, which includes 2,300 professional members.
